

EDITOR THE STAR: While reading your editorials I notice you are in favor of the state declaring the liquor business a monopoly and taking it over.

I am not in favor of a state-owned liquor business, but I am in favor of a state-controlled business. I think the people would better understand what you mean by a "monopoly" if they knew just how much liquor could be made from a bushel of corn or a hundred pounds of sugar. The following is information from old timers who knew of liquor before we had prohibition:

Two gallons can be made from a bushel of corn and four to five gallons from a hundred pounds of sugar. Just figure it in dollars and cents and take all taxes and subtract them from present prices — and find out how much a bushel of corn or a hundred pounds of sugar would be worth refined into liquor.

JOHN W. WEBB

March 12, 1951

Ozan, Ark.

THANKS, READER WEBB. However, if you are suggesting that we expand our state monopoly idea to include manufacturing as well as distribution I must respectfully decline.

The situation is not without irony. Reader Webb is probably thinking that if it is logical, as I have, to suggest that because the state makes money out of taxing liquor it could make more money by selling it, it would be still more profitable to set up a distillery.

But I refuse to be trapped and confounded. Let us say simply this: The State of Arkansas needs about 10 million dollars more revenue than it now has, and we could raise it by selling the existing private system of distributing liquor.

I am not interested in the economics of liquor manufacturing, which, when you get away from the country still operation and into a full-blown city distillery, is a complicated and hazardous business. All I'm debating here is the feasibility of seizing a known and proven traffic and converting it to the public treasury.

Kidnapper Surrenders to Police

Wichita Falls, Tex., March 13 — (AP) — Norman Davenport, one of two jail-breaking Texas toughs charged with kidnapping, surrendered today. His brother, Chester, already was behind bars.

Norman showed up at City Detective Bill Capchett's home about 9:30 a.m. (CST) and surrendered. Capchett immediately took the desperado to the Wichita Falls police station.

Officers had been searching in both Texas and Oklahoma for the 23-year-old Norman, who broke jail with Chester in Pryor, Okla., last Tuesday.

Chester, 26, was found in the closet of a sister's home here Sunday. He surrendered meekly to Detective Charles E. Wilson.

Federal kidnap charges have been filed against the pair because they forced an Oklahoma youth to drive them to Wichita Falls last Friday night.

The Oklahoma youth, Coy Lee Scroggins, 23, a student at Northeastern State Teachers college in Tahlequah, Okla., said he was forced at gunpoint to drive the pair across the state line.

They also were state charge of kidnapping in Oklahoma — the one of which they had been held at Pryor.

Motorists Urged Not to Be Road Hogs

"A dead person can't accept the apology of a discourteous driver."

That grim reminder was given today by Mrs. Paul Klipsch, health and safety chairman of the Hope Business and Professional Women's club as that organization continued their program of traffic safety education for March, using the theme "Motor Manners."

Excessive speed is the worst form of rudeness on the road, because it is fertile ground that breeds other discourteous acts. When a car is being driven too fast, proper passing procedure is likely to be sacrificed. Driving on the wrong side of the road may result from lack of control caused by speeding. Other violations can also be traced to the speeding source.

According to the National Safety Council, more than 5,000 persons sped to their death in traffic accidents last year. Unless strong steps are taken, the history of highway deaths will be repeating itself again this year. That is why emphasis is being placed on attacking this tool right where it begins. These tools are the discourteous driving habits of the individual.

U. S. Has New Formula on Price Ceilings

Washington, March 13 — (AP) — The government put finishing touches today on a proposed new formula designed to tie price ceilings more closely to manufacturing cost increases since the Korean war.

Thirty top industrialists from a dozen states will sit down with Price Director Michael V. DiSalle tomorrow to discuss terms of the new order which has been in the making for weeks. Even before their arrival there were reports there would be some loud protests from manufacturers against the plan.

DiSalle disclosed to reporters that the latest draft of the regulation was sent to the selected industry men for study. He said they were asked to keep the provisions secret until the order finally is worked out.

The price chief said the projected regulation has a double aim: 1. To give relief to those manufacturers who have avoided price increases and have sought voluntarily to cooperate with the government in holding down prices; and

2. To bring rollbacks by those industries where prices have advanced unnecessarily and faster than their increased labor and materials costs.

No definite progress was reported, meanwhile, in the government's efforts to coax major segments of organized labor back into the defense mobilization effort. They walked out in protest over wage ceilings and general dissatisfaction with the way the program was being run.

In inviting the industrialists here for a review of the projected price order, DiSalle told them the objective is "to move as rapidly as possible on as broad a front as is practicable toward the restoration of a reasonably balanced and workable price structure."

Lack of Funds Close Some Schools, Others Depend on Ability to Raise Money

By The Associated Press

Whether many Arkansas schools complete the full spring semester apparently depends upon their ability to raise money locally.

The 1951 legislature gave the schools only one-sixth of the additional money the state education department said they needed. As a result, the state board of education Monday ordered reductions in planned state aid to local school districts.

The Hope School situation is being studied at length by the local school board and an announcement is scheduled to be forthcoming soon. The board met last night but declined to comment on action taken.

Many districts previously had said they would have to close their schools early this year unless they received more money — from the state or locally.

Five schools in the Alma district of northwest Arkansas closed their doors last Friday but were reopened Tuesday after $22,000 had been raised through public subscription. They are the Alma high school, Alma elementary school, junior high schools at Dyer and Rudy and the Booker Negro school, having a total of 1,333 pupils and 41 teachers.

Two schools at Wickes and Hamilton in Polk county also were closed.

Negro Woman Perishes When Home Burns

An 86-year-old Negro woman, Susy Robinson, perished in a fire which destroyed her home yesterday 2 miles south of Saratoga on Highway 55.

The aged woman lived alone. Origin of the blaze could not be definitely determined but is believed to have caught from a wood stove.

A neighbor saw the house was afire and rushed in but was too late to save the woman. The woman had lived alone for years and officers said she refused to have anyone in the house with her although a sister lived in the same neighborhood.

Investigating officers Deputy Sheriff Allen Shipp and State Policemen Porterfield and Mosier indicated there was no sign of foul play.

Hays said he wanted the hearing to coincide with the Greater Little Rock Manufacturers' exposition which he said would attract many small businessmen to the state.

Summary of Bills Favoring Public Schools

Little Rock, March 13 — (AP) — Here is a summary of new laws affecting Arkansas public schools approved by the 1951 legislature:

Act 37 (HB31) — Permits fiscal officers of school districts to withhold group insurance policy premium payments from salaries of teachers or other school employees.

Act 46 (HB70) — Prohibits school districts from paying dues to the Arkansas education association or similar organization for teachers.

Act 157 (HB9) — Directs that all money derived from sale of confiscated alcoholic beverages be distributed to county school fund in county where confiscation is made.

Act 249 (HB111) — Increases state tax on cigarettes from four to six cents a package. Revenue from the increase shall be distributed to the school fund until June 30. Thereafter revenue will go toward construction of the proposed $8,000,000 medical center.

These bills were approved by the legislature but have not been signed by the governor.

House bill 208 — changes date of school election from the last Tuesday in September to the last Saturday in March, to become effective in 1953.

House bill 390 — sets up a new formula for state aid to the local school districts and requires counties to raise their assessments to qualify for aid.

House bill 394 — authorizes transfer of $500,000 from the teacher retirement fund for operation of the schools.

House bill 466 — authorizes Arkansas legislative council to spend $25,000 in study of educational needs of the state.

Senate bill 154 — provides that school election contests suits be filed in Circuit court instead of county court.

Gambler Issues Challenge to Crime Probers

New York, March 13 — (AP) — Gambler Frank Costello today challenged senate crime investigators to produce evidence that he runs a national crime syndicate.

The committee has accused Costello in recent reports of ruling such an organization.

Demanding, in effect, that the committee put up or shut up, Costello said through his attorney: "I am a witness and not a defendant."

He said he wanted to see the evidence, and then have a chance to make "proper reply."

Sen. Charles Tobey (R-NH) interrupted to say that he believed the committee has heard adequate testimony to support a claim to deport the Italian-born Costello from the United States.

The senator said that Costello's alleged 1925 falsification of a naturalization application was sufficient grounds to annul his citizenship. He said the gambler's admitted bootlegging activities in the prohibition era provided additional grounds for deportation.

Dressed immaculately in a blue suit and maroon tie, the suave, reputed underworld leader took his place under the television lights beside his attorney, George Wolf.

The crowded room in the federal courthouse became perceptibly tense as Costello entered.

In his statement, he charged that the committee had named him as a national arch-criminal in a report prepared before he even appeared at an executive session of the group previously.

Yielding to Costello's request, the committee agreed not to televise his appearance. All of the open hearing yesterday was televised. Costello protested this would make him a "spectacle" and deprive him of the right of counsel-client privacy.

His appearance came shortly after a deputy New York attorney general had testified that he was introduced to underworld.

It Doesn't Take Much to Set Off an Explosion — This One Was Started by Seat Covers

By ARTHUR EDSON

(For Hal Boyle)

Washington, March 13 — (AP) — Sometimes it takes only the slightest catch to start an explosion or start a chain reaction. You know, the match to the powder keg, the push of the button or whatever that puts the uranium pile in action.

In my case, it was seat covers. This sad story begins a year ago, with the old 1941 car. It was in need of a number of things, new piston rings, new tires, a new windshield.

"At least," said my wife, "we should put on seat covers."

So off we went to town. By one of those marvelous coincidences that shows up only around cunning women, we parked next to a second-hand car lot.

"Oh, look," said my wife, feigning surprise, "a station wagon. Just what we need for the four kids."

Without bothering to recount the painful details, we'll just say we went to town to buy seat covers and drove home in a station wagon.

It made a hit with the kids, too, with one minor exception. Judah, who is five, was given a ride by herself in the back seat. "How do you like it?" I asked.

"I'm lonely," she said. "I'll the station wagon — which is merely a fancy name for an overdriven truck — was all right. I especially liked the leather seats, easy to clean of footmarks, melted crayons and bubblegum."

Then I began to worry. The station wagon was a good thing, but wouldn't it not be down in the market? Didn't we need a car?

Ted Warren Jones

Hope's entry in the Horace Hald youth opportunity show to be held here Thursday night is Ted Warren Jones, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted E. Jones of 1322 South Main street.

Ted is a student at Henderson State Teachers college, Arkadelphia. He is the oldest of four children and is a member of a musical family. His father is a baritone soloist for First Christian church and his mother teaches piano.

Young Ted started his musical education at the age of 11. In Dallas, Texas, his birthplace, he has studied piano and violin since. He plays of baritone sax, drums and french horn during his four years in the high school band and began singing at the age of 16 while helping to organize a school glee club.

He sang in numerous school operettas, programs and graduation exercises and two years ago started studying voice at HSTC. He appeared in the college production of "Iolanthe" and had the lead in an operetta, "Down in the Valley."

During the past winter he has been soloist at First Methodist church in Arkadelphia.

House Group Charges Records Tampered With

Little Rock, March 13 — (AP) — An Arkansas house committee charged today that records of the lower chamber had been "altered and tampered with."

The journal committee said that the emergency clause on the so-called state purchasing measure failed to gain sufficient votes.

"The statement followed an inquiry by the committee into records kept by the clerk in charge of the lower chamber's proceedings."

The investigation came when the official house journal report showed that the emergency clause on the bill had been approved although it apparently failed to gain sufficient votes when the measure was called up for approval last week.

A grand jury investigation into possible irregularities involving the act was suggested earlier today.

Confessed Spy Admits Giving Data to Russia

New York, March 13 — (AP) — A confessed spy awaiting sentence here gave accused Russian agent a description of an atom bomb, dating the one used at Hiroshima.

David Greenglass, 39, an army sergeant, testified that he had described to his brother, Julius Rosenberg, 33, the atom bomb.

Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel, 33, who is Greenglass' sister, on trial accused of spying for Russia in wartime, were sentenced to death.

A third defendant, Sobell, 35, a radar expert, not mentioned in yesterday's testimony, was sentenced to 30 years.

The trial resumes today. Greenglass, who once was a foreman at the Los Alamos atomic bomb project, obtained information on the atom bomb from his brother.

The witness said Rosenberg, an electrical engineer, had given him information on the atom bomb from the Los Alamos project.

Greenglass described the atom bomb as a "fission bomb" and said it was made of uranium and plutonium.

"I don't know how it happened, but somewhere along the line we decided we really didn't need a garage, which was the point of the search in the first place."

"We still haven't found what we want, but we've learned a few things."

If the ad says, "Will take twin beds," we now know that this is true, if you stand the beds on end.

"Out there it's peaceful and quiet" means that you'll have to hire an Indian guide to find your way back to Washington.

Yanks Capture Yudong, Drive Nears Parallel

Tokyo, March 13 — (AP) — American troops stormed back into Yudong today and wrested control of the village from a battalion of Chinese Reds.

Yudong is 11 miles southeast of Hongchon and less than three miles southwest of a Chinese concentration area.

U. S. Second Division patrol first entered the town Monday night but withdrew after a brief fire fight.

Elsewhere along the 70-mile front United Nations forces were chasing strangely elusive Chinese and North Korean soldiers back toward the 38th parallel.

Probing abscondings of three American columns closing in on Hongchon were within 25 miles of the old boundary between North and South Korea.

In the assault on Yudong, the doughboys first smashed a road block half a mile south of the village. Then they stormed ahead despite mortar, automatic weapons and small arms fire.

Atom Worker Fired for Tipoff

Washington, March 13 — (AP) — An employee of the atomic energy commission has been fired because officials said he acknowledged helping an outsider he might profit by buying up land at the site of the AEC's new South Carolina plant.

At the AEC's request, the plant has begun such an investigation. The senate-house atomic energy committee has also promised to make an inquiry.

Dean told newsmen the AEC has been investigating "on its own."

As a result, we have learned that in one case advance information to the effect that another person could profit by land was given by an employee of Savannah river office of the AEC.

"His name is W. Conrad Kelvey. This information was given to Mr. Walter V. Pace, the chairman from Utah, who made charges of property near the Mr. McKelvey is no longer played in the program."

Pace is a Salt Lake city attorney who is reported to have bought options on two pieces of land in the area for $44,000 in November and later sold them for a profit of $70,000.

Congress TV Is a Long Way Off

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, March 13 — (AP) — Would you like to be able to sit at home and watch on your TV screen the full congress at work in the house and senate chambers?

I guess a lot of people would, judging from the thousands who pour through Washington every year, wanting a look at congress in action. But the day when it happens is probably a long way off.

With few exceptions, congress won't even let news photographers take pictures now inside the house and senate chambers. The exceptions are times when someone like President Truman addresses a joint session.

(Pictures are permitted in public committee hearings but as for the regular day-in-and-day-out sessions on the floor of house and senate — no pictures of any kind by anybody.)

Of course, there might be quite an improvement in both houses if the people back home were watching them on TV, although there's another side to this argument, as you'll see in a minute.

Senator so-and-so, who never learned how to attach a period to the end of a sentence, might learn pretty quickly he was boring the daylight out of his constituents with those long-winded talks of his.

Now, with no one listening except maybe a handful of people in the gallery and less than half a dozen senators on the floor, he will talk for hours, even though it's only to impress himself.

In the house — which has 435 members, all pretty good talkers, while the senate has only 96 — all speeches have short limits. So there's not much room for marathons.

And maybe even attendance on the house and senate floors would pick up if the folks back home were watching TV to see if the members were on the job every day.

True, a member of congress may be working like a beaver on congressional business somewhere else — in a committee meeting or investigation — without poking his nose inside the house or senate chamber doors.

But he'd hardly forget, certainly, around election time, to get his face in focus on TV pretty often.

There was a great lack of cheering when one member of the house — Rep. Javits, elected from New York on the Republican-liberal party ticket — suggested the house doings be televised.

He thinks it's a good idea, pointing to the "highly successful" TV coverage of the United Nations debates in the security council and general assembly.

That's all just a kind of optimistic notion about what might come of televising congress. The Washington Post recently raised another point in an editorial critical of televising congressional committee investigations regularly. It said:

"The regular use of television in committee investigations would certainly encourage the inquisitors to put on a show instead of calmly seeking information. Witnesses likewise would be tempted to resort to spectacular stunts and colorful charges."

That editorial grew out of the predicament of James J. Carroll, nationally known maker of betting odds, when he walked out of a St. Louis hearing conducted by the senate's Kefauver crime investigating committee.

He strode out because cameras were set up in the hearing room to televise him testifying. He said this was an invasion of his privacy and an outrage to his sense of propriety.

The Post took the position that witnesses in a courtroom don't have to face TV cameras and witnesses before a congressional investigating committee shouldn't have to, either, against their will.

The Kefauver committee, very much put out by Carroll's performance, wants to test whether a witness can be forced to appear on TV. So it voted to ask the full senate to cite him for contempt.

If the post is right about the effect of TV cameras on congressmen, maybe TV of both houses would make congressional doings worse instead of better. I'd still like to see it tried.

Seek to Keep Thugs Out of Liquor Trade

Washington, March 13 — (AP) — What can be done to keep criminal elements out of the wholesale liquor business?

The question, raised by the senate's special crime investigating committee, has brought varying replies from spokesmen for the nation's major distillers and the federal alcohol tax unit.

The distillers, the producers of liquor, say they cannot summarily cut off liquor supplies to wholesalers "who are engaged in underworld activity" without running afoul of anti-trust laws.

Deputy Commissioner Carroll E. Mealey of the alcohol tax unit said a report submitted by distillers' representatives outlined their legal difficulties in taking "any concerted action to discontinue sales to racketeering wholesalers."

But he said their report "disregards the possibility of correction through individual action."

Mealey said he has told distillers it is "common knowledge" that they have frequently denied or ended franchises to distributors "what are considered good business reasons."

"I know of no better reason for withholding or withdrawing a franchise than the fact that the wholesale firm involved may be resorting to racketeering methods or may be dominated by undesirable persons whose activities reflect upon the entire trade."

He urged all distillers "individually to re-examine all wholesale outlets in the light" of what he had to say.

All this came into the open yesterday with the senate crime committee's publication of documents relating to consultations it had with representatives of the liquor industry last November about eliminating racketeering elements from the trade.

Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said at a hearing of his crime investigating committee last Friday:

"His recent setback," said Dr. A. B. Smith.

The Republican senator from Michigan was convalescing at his home here when he suffered a relapse Feb. 26. At that time his condition was reported serious.

Moral Probe Suggested by Fulbright

Washington, March 13 — (AP) — Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) suggested today that a commission of distinguished citizens be set up to investigate "moral standards in government" and look into the "conduct of congress itself."

It is too demanding a task, he said, for the senate banking subcommittee whose efforts have already touched off a federal grand jury investigation aimed at uncovering any law violations in the making of big government loans.

Any action by the grand jury, which convened yesterday, appeared to be weeks away.

The subcommittee, of which Fulbright is chairman, has accused an influence ring with exerting pressure on the reconstruction finance corporation (RFC), the multi-billion dollar government lending agency. The subcommittee has said the ring reaches into the White House.

Fulbright moved to bring the subcommittee's inquiries to an early end because, he said, it has served its purpose — to investigate the RFC. But he said it has turned up findings which might merit creation of a group somewhat similar to the Hoover commission to conduct "a general investigation of moral standards in government."

"I am quite willing to propose it," he told reporters.

And, he said, any such study "ought to include an examination of congressional relations" with various government agencies, presumably including the RFC.

Russia's population is estimated at 192,756,000.

"Can't beat Dodge for dependability!"

NEW engineering advancements make traditional Dodge dependability GREATER VALUE THAN EVER

THE DODGE reputation for dependability and long car life is a matter of record... a record of 37 years... a record no other car can match.

And with the many new advancements engineered into the great '51 Dodge, this famous dependability makes Dodge an even bigger value, an even bigger dollar buy.

For example, new Oriflow Shock Absorbers smooth out the bumpiest roads to give you a level, more comfortable ride... smoother the jolts... reduce wear on vital chassis parts.

Cushions moving parts. Dodge Gyro-Matic, lowest priced automatic transmission, along with Fluid Drive makes handling easier and smoother for you. But equally important, Dodge Fluid Drive cushions the power thrusts from engine to rear wheels. Starts and stops are soft and smooth. Your car and your tires last longer.

Yes, everything about this great new Dodge—the way it looks, rides and handles—tells you that here's a car built to deliver years and miles of dependable, low-cost service.

5 minutes tells why. Give us just five minutes. Let us show you how you could pay up to $1,000 more and still not get all the extra room, handling ease and rugged dependability of this great new 1951 Dodge.

NEW ORIFLOW SHOCK ABSORBERS! With twice the shock absorbing capacity, you actually "float" over road bumps—bad they stop other cars. No bounce, pitch or side sway—wheels stay on the ground for a smoother, safer ride.

TO ALL AUTO OWNERS

Your Legislature has recently passed a 1951 Financial Responsibility law. This is now Act No. 160 of 1951 — being House Bill No. 200 by Harvey of Jackson County. The Bill has been signed by your Governor and will become a law June 6th, 1951.

Briefly this law is this: "Should you have an accident in which an automobile or truck, either owned or operated by you, injures someone or damages someone's property you must pay for the injuries or damages. If you don't, and a judgment against you requires you to pay within 30 days; you may have to forfeit your driver's license and your license plate. This law requires that you be financially responsible for your acts as an owner or operator of any motor vehicle. A policy of insurance in a strong, sound capital company is the surest, simplest and safest means of protecting everything you have or expect to have."

We, for any agent nor Insurance Company have any hand in making this new law but your representatives thought it for the best interest of the public to pass such a law.

We will be glad to serve you.

"I WANT TO TELL THIS TO WOMEN IN YOUR 40's"

I find Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound wonderful to relieve distress of 'change of life'

"Any woman between the ages of 38 and 52 should be interested in my experience. I was going through functional change of life and found myself terribly embarrassed from hot flashes and I felt so nervous, easily upset because of this."

"What really shocked me was when I overheard my husband explaining my shortcomings behind my back. He said, 'Don't mind Louise—she's going through change of life.' That made up my mind. I had heard how effective Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was for relieving such symptoms, and I decided then and there to try it. Thank heavens I did."

"I find Pinkham's Compound simply marvelous to relieve embarrassing symptoms due to this cause. In fact I now take Lydia Pinkham's Compound regularly to help build up resistance against hot flashes, tense emotions, flighty, nervous, tired feeling due to this cause. I wish anyone who troubled this way would try this great medicine. Lydia Pinkham's Compound tastes like a little fruit juice or plain water. It's the only woman's medicine."

Christian Women Hear Missionary

Rev. C. H. Lord, a missionary from the Philippines, was the guest speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian Church on Monday, March 12th. Mrs. Wilma Ruth Maledon, secretary of the women's work in Arkansas, introduced Mr. Lord to the group and explained that he is on a tour to visit 20 churches in Arkansas telling of the mission work of the Disciples of Christ in the Philippines.

About 30 people attended the covered dish luncheon and were greatly interested in all that Mr. Lord told. Before the group left Fellowship hall he showed numerous slides to give everyone an idea of the people and living conditions in various parts of the Philippines.

After this the group moved to the sanctuary where Mr. Lord delivered a most instructive and stirring message. He traced the progress of Protestant mission work from its beginning up until the time he and his wife returned to the States in October. He also pointed out the great possibilities for the future if all churches will support the missionary effort as they should.

Mrs. Oliver Adams is the president of the women's work in the Hope church. In addition to the members present delegations from the Lewisville and Prescott churches were also in attendance.

DOROTHY DIX Killed by Kindness

Dear Miss Dix: What is one to do with a too-good mother-in-law? I have one who is so good to me, so anxious to help me and to save me from all work and worry that she has taken entire charge of my house. She doesn't leave me a thing to do. To all intents and purposes it is hers and not mine (I live in a duplex apartment that has been made from part of her house). When I protest she says: "You must be tired. Just sit down and take things easy and let me do it" until sometimes I feel as if I could scream, but I can't say anything because I know she is doing it from the best motives. I am not unappreciative, but I do want to run my house myself, and my mother-in-law has entirely eliminated me from being able to do anything my own way. What about it?

HENRIETTE
Answer: So far as you are concerned I am afraid there is nothing to do except to endure your mother-in-law's meddlesomeness, which is none the less hard to stand because it is meant in kindness. Being smothered to death in molasses is none the less unpleasant and fatal because it is sweet.

You'd Better Move
The only remedy I can suggest is for you to induce your husband to move to another city, where you will be out of reach of your mother-in-law's efforts to live a happy life for you. A good long, expensive railroad ticket has solved many a delicate family problem. If this is impossible and emigration to some distant spot is not feasible, go to some other part of the town to live, where you may possess your bathtub and kitchen and gas stove in peace.

It is a strange thing that any woman doesn't know enough about her own sex to realize that every woman wants to select her own home and the furniture, and to run it according to her own taste and that any other woman interferes with this at her peril. Why, to get her own home is one of the main things a girl marries for, and she doesn't want even her own mother to make a suggestion in it. Nor does she want any other woman to take her work out of her hands and any mother-in-law or aunt or any other female relative who thinks that she is being good and kind to a bride by doing her work for her or showing her an easy way to do things has another guess coming.

Dear Miss Dix: My Grandson, aged 16, has been in the habit of borrowing small sums from me with the understanding that he will return them when he receives his allowance, but he never does. When I remind him of it he says he has forgotten it, and his mother gets angry at me and accuses me of being stingy. Says I should give the boy the money. Believe me, Miss Dix, I am not thinking of the money but the dishonest principle of borrowing and never paying back that is instilled in this boy's character. What do you think?

GRANDMA
Answer: I think that you are exactly right and that there is nothing more important than that children should be taught from their earliest infancy to take a responsible attitude toward money and to be punctilious in paying their debts. It should be impressed upon every child that to borrow and not to repay is just as dishonest as stealing. It is even more despicable because it is betraying trust of someone who likes us.

No part of a child's education is more important than teaching it to handle money. From the time a child is 5 years old it should be given a regular allowance and it should be made to live within this allowance. If it spends it foolishly, it should be made to do without the things it wants the remainder of the week. There should be no begging for nickels and no borrowing. But if it does borrow the parents should see that the debt is repaid to the last penny. When you have taught a child to take care of money, to do without until it has the money to pay for it, to spend wisely and well and to pay its debts, you have laid the foundations of an upright character.

Dear Miss Dix: Please tell me what to do with a boy friend who falls asleep in my presence. He comes to see me almost every night and we go to shows and dances.

be able to keep awake. What shall I do?

SALLY
Answer: Why, I think I would give him the air. He certainly pays you a very poor compliment by falling asleep in your presence, or may be it is the other way around and your conversation is so soothing that it lulls him into repose. At any rate, a sleepheaded husband will not make a very interesting and thrilling life companion.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a professional woman trying to make a little money by writing in spare time when I am not doing housework and taking care of my baby. My whole schedule is knocked silly and all of my efforts to work aborted by a neighbor woman, who is a perpetual visitor and who holds me up for hours with accounts of everything her grown sons and daughters, sons-in-law and daughters-in-law and grandchildren do and think and have. She keeps the baby from being to sleep at the regular hour and she prevents me from ever doing up to sleep at the regular hour. What do you suggest?

A BORED WOMAN
Answer: There is no use in trying to deal subtly with the chronic visitor. She, and just as often she is a he, is so sheathed in self-conceit that she has a hide like rhinoceros and any hint that you may let drop about being busy glances off her consciousness without even making a dent in it.

Don't Be Victimized
I think you are very foolish to let yourself be victimized by a garrulous bore. As a direct way is always the simplest and the best, you should just tell her that you mean no offense but that your time is valuable to you and that you can't afford to waste it in idle talk. Or, if you haven't the nerve to tell her the truth, lock all your doors tight and fast before her arrival and let her knock and ring in vain. After she has done that for a couple of times she will get the idea that you are not pining for her society.

Everyone has to go through this experience with the time-wasters because there are so many idle men and women who have no resources within themselves, and who inflame themselves and their inane chatter on anyone who is good-natured or weak enough to stand for them. Apparently it never occurs to them that they are interfering with the work of busy people or that anybody could get tired of listening to their oft-told tales or failed to be thrilled with their small beer chronicles of family happenings. They are enjoying themselves listening to the sound of their voices and they should worry if they are driving you to thoughts of suicide.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a young man and have been married a little over a year to a woman to whom I am very much devoted. Our marriage would be ideal except that my wife has told me that my mother shall never be allowed to put her foot in our house as long as we are married. She accuses my mother of trying to dictate to us how to run our affairs, which is absolutely not true. My mother lives far away from us and has only once visited us. I am her only child and I have told my wife that under no condition will I continue living with her as long as she refuses to let Mother come to see us. Don't you think I am justified?

UNHAPPY MAN
Answer: Your wife is just insanely jealous of your mother and, alas, there is no cure for jealousy. It originates without cause. It needs nothing to feed it. It cannot be reasoned with. The only thing you can do is to submit to the tranny it imposes upon you, or else make a clean break with it. There is no hope that the person ever afflicted with it will ever change.

I think you are acting the part of a man in insisting that your mother shall be permitted to visit you in the house you support and of which you are the ostensible head, but even if you force your wife to receive her it will be an empty victory. She will treat your mother as badly and hurt her in all the little mean ways that women know so well that there will be no pleasure in the visit for your mother.

But if your wife forces you to refrain from having your mother come to see her, you will have a

Cook Pleads Guilty to Kidnapping

Oklahoma City, March 13.—(AP)—Bill Cook, admitted slayer of six persons, today was escorted to the federal building under heavy armed guard and in a surprise move pleaded guilty to kidnapping under the Lindbergh law.

Cook, charged with kidnapping the five members of the Carl Mosser family of Atwood, Ill., originally entered a plea of innocent last month.

However, with his two count appointed attorneys, he appealed before U. S. District Judge Stephen S. Chandler today.

Chandler allowed Cook to change his plea but the judge said he would accept it with reservations. Chandler told Cook's attorneys—Gomer Smith Sr. and John Connelley Jr.—he would make further Children's Home at the April meeting. The meeting was opened with the group repeating the American Creed and singing the song of the month. The devotional was read by Mrs. White and Mrs. T. B. Fenwick led the group in prayer.

Mrs. Dale Tonnemeyer won the surprise package and Mrs. Orville Steadman and Mrs. W. B. Wilson received prizes during the recreational period. Refreshments were served to twelve members. The meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. J. B. Hargis April 13 at 7:30 p. m.

Investigation of Cook's mental competence before deciding further action.

Cook made the guilty plea in an effort to escape the death penalty. The Mossers were found shot to death in an abandoned mine shaft at Joplin, Mo., Jan. 15. Cook admitted kidnapping the Mossers in Oklahoma county Dec. 30 and forcing them on a three-day ride of terror over the southwest.

Cook was captured in Mexico Jan. 14.

Chandler has two alternatives. He can give Cook a life sentence without a trial. However, under the Lindbergh law a jury trial must be held to assess the death penalty.

GOP Approval of New Troop Change Likely

Washington, March 13 — (AP) — Senate leaders sought final approval today by two senate committees of troops-to-Europe resolution prospects were brightened by a Republican agreement on changes of them want made.

Senator J. W. Fulbright, D-Conn., acting chairman of the committee on foreign relations and armed forces, said he hopes the measure will be passed before the end of the week.

Senator H. Alexander Smith, R-Mich., introduced the beginning of the debate Thursday. He said he thinks the issue may be disposed of before a planned Easter recess on March 22.

Smith said Republican committee members agreed generally to back the measure in the wording of Senate's two-house resolution which would make it clear that the law-makers are approving sending a million troops to Europe.

President Truman has said he would send those ground forces to two U. S. divisions now in Germany and already assigned to the international command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Senate Republicans backed another change in wording which would make it clear that the resolutions would put emphasis on record as being that it be called upon to approve before any further decision is made to send more troops to Europe.

Senate Republicans are demanding that Congress give prior approval for any troop transfers. They have indicated they will try to attach legislation to that effect in pending military manpower bill.

Smith said that was the Senate's position. "Congressional approval" would mean that in future both houses would have to be consulted about land force increases.

The House sponsor was ready in a double-barreled action by the Senate.

Manpower Measure Is About Ready

Washington, March 13 — (AP) — The House armed services committee today moved toward approval of a new military manpower bill, which would keep military manpower at 1,000,000 men, to attach to it the troops-to-Europe issue.

Armed services committee, an arm of the House, was waiting for the committee to bar the committee of U. S. troops to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Western European defense force unless Congress gives its approval in advance.

The committee, however, somewhat stronger in its position, was approved in the House GOP policy committee today.

Smith told newsmen only he would offer the resolution as an amendment to the draft-universal military service when the proper time comes. The committee, applying the bill section by section, is nearing the final pages. It hopes to finish today or tomorrow. Republicans may hold their fire until the bill reaches the floor, possibly this week. There they will run into opposition steamed up by President Truman, House Speaker Rayburn and other administration leaders. In a telephone talk yesterday with congressional leaders from Key West, Fla., Mr. Truman was reported to have expressed the hope Congress would not restrict transfer of troops to Europe. Republicans yesterday tried unsuccessfully first to split the one-package draft law revision and universal military training bill into two bills, and second to split the bill into two separate sections.

Russian tea was served during the social hour.

Ministers May Agree on One Point

Paris, March 13 — (AP) — Russia and the Western powers seemed to be creeping toward agreement today on one point for their Big Four foreign ministers to talk about at a future conference, but there still are huge obstacles in the way.

A British official said that actually Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is growing "more and more intransigent" in his opposition to the westerners' stand on what they consider the main point of any conference — that to improve east-west relations the foreign ministers must get down to causes and see why things are tense.

The Russians say they want to get down to causes instead of causes. They want to talk about Germany, mostly, and specifically about the disarming of Germany and how to see that she stays disarmed. They also want to talk about reducing armaments all around.

The Western deputies say the Russians have no right to put on record that the ministers should discuss disarmament and the disarming of Germany. They contend the foreign ministers can go over those subjects if they like, but the subject headings should be neutral — "level of armaments" and "preparation of German treaty." Otherwise, says the West, the deputies meeting here would be prejudging decisions their bosses ought to make.

The Russians and the Western powers started with two entirely different drafts a week ago, each containing three points. They seem to agree on one point — except for two words.

The Soviet point number two, as amended yesterday, now calls for discussion of "reestablishment of unity of Germany and conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany."

The West's point three, unchanged from the beginning, reads: "Problems of German unity and preparations of a peace treaty for Germany."

Costello Is Called in by Crime Diggers

New York, March 13 — (AP) — Gambler Frank Costello was called before U. S. senate crime investigators today.

He faced questions about assertions that his influence extended to majority elections, legitimate racetracks and underworld book-making.

The much publicized underworld figure's public testimony follows the first day of hearings yesterday at which Costello's name dominated the proceedings.

One witness testified that Costello's backing determined a man's chances of becoming mayor of New York City.

Another said $80,000 paid to Costello kept bookmakers away from Roosevelt raceway on Long Island.

The senate crime committee has said Costello heads a national crime syndicate.

Again and again, Costello's name came up to overshadow testimony by those previously called as star witnesses, including G. A. Rikers, Frank Jackson and Joe Adonis.

Costello himself was not present.

Quietly, But Inevitably, the Red Avalanche Is Moving Westward From Red China

By DeWITT MARKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Quietly but inevitably the Red avalanche is moving westward from Communist China into new fields of conquest.

Tibet, already occupied by invading Chinese troops, is now studying a Peiping peace offer which would in effect make this little state in the "roof of the world" a part of China.

The proposal provides that the Chinese recognize Tibetan autonomy and freedom of religious activity under the dala lama "with-in the framework of the Chinese people's republic."

The Chinese would have absolute control of Tibet's defenses. All Tibetan foreign relations would be controlled by Peiping.

India is watching with cautious concern as this drama unfolds on her Himalayan frontier to the north. The position is rendered more grave by the fact that Peiping last November issued maps showing as Chinese territory an area 300 miles long and 100 wide in India's great province of Assam.

yesterday at the federal court house. He reportedly was watching the proceedings on a television set in his favorite cocktail lounge.

A Brooklyn Republican, Charles Lipsky, 74, was asked if he thought "it was necessary to get Costello backing in the selection of a (mayoralty) candidate."

"I would say so," Lipsky replied. "That's why I went to him."

Lipsky explained that he had been in Democratic city politics because the Republican party had no chance of electing a mayor.

The big question naturally is which lies up against Tibet.

Indian surrender to this Chinese claim in Assam would cost New Delhi her defensive Himalayan mountain wall. This was agreed upon as a frontier in 1914 and was accepted by Tibet. However, China never approved this line.

This same map also showed as Chinese territory a huge triangle of neighboring Burma, former British territory and one of the world's rice bowls.

Publication of the map created a sensation and Premier Nehru declared that India would defend her northern frontier according to her own maps. The situation was tense.

Three weeks ago Red China announced that she would waive settlement of her claims to northern Assam to some future date. However, simultaneously India Home Minister Rajagopalachari told parliament that Communists in 13 villages of Assam were engaged in a reign of terror. He declined to say whether the Assam Communists were getting help from their comrades in Burma and China. At the same time he said it is "well known that Communist organizations are more or less international."

So that's the way the position stands along the Indian frontier. The conference in Tibet over the Chinese demands is said to be dominated by pro-Communist Tibetans. However, a small group of leaders insist there is still a chance of maintaining independence and a mission reportedly has been sent to Peiping to ask Red Generalissimo Mao Tze-tung to soften his terms.

The big question naturally is what, if anything, is anybody going to do about this imbroglio along the "roof of the world." Barring Nehru's declaration that India would defend her frontiers, there has been no obstruction placed in the way of Peiping.

The U. N. has had a look at the situation, but hasn't made any move to intervene. As a matter of fact, if the U. N. did decide to intervene, it first would have to puzzle out what it could do about it. It isn't a position which lends itself to easy treatment.

Moreover, it has to be recognized that from the 17th century down to the Chinese revolution of 1912, Tibet was under Chinese domination. Therefore the peace organization hasn't seen fit to pick up the issue.

So the Red avalanche moves westward in Asia.

Testimony Links Folsom With Payoff

Montgomery, Ala., March 13 — (AP) — Testimony linking former Gov. James E. Folsom to reports of a $1,000 payoff gave a startling turn today to an investigation of the recent wholesale release of convicts.

The story was told by a state employee yesterday to a legislative committee which is looking into pardon and parole activities during the closing months of the Folsom administration.

It also involved Folsom-appointed Bill Drinkard and Glen Vinson, who dominated the parole board for 15 1/2 months before they went out of office along with Folsom on Jan. 15.

More than 1,600 paroles and 350 outright pardons were granted during the time the Folsom appointees controlled the board's policy. In many instances prisoners were set free after serving only a small fraction of their sentences.

The witness yesterday was W. G. Smith, a worker at the state docks at Mobile. He quoted a reformed desperado, Roy Dickerson of Mobile, as saying $1,000 was paid for a pardon for a convicted killer, and that the money was split among Folsom, Drinkard and Vinson.

Smith was subpoenaed to tell what he knew, if anything, about the release of Norris E. Kervin, who had served less than seven months of a 25-year murder sentence when he was pardoned on Jan. 11, four days before the end of Folsom's term in office.

The witness quoted Dickerson, a onetime bank robber who has been mentioned previously in testimony about other paroles, as saying Kervin could get out of prison for $1,000.

Later, Smith added, Dickerson told him the money went to the governor and the two parole board members.

Joe Lewis Is Sick With Flu

Detroit, March 13 — (AP) — Joe Louis was reported today to have the flu and his bout with Onelio Agramonte here March 28 was indefinitely postponed.

Olympia Matchmaker Nick Lodges announced the postponement in saying he'd been advised by Joe's manager, Marshall Miles, that the former heavyweight champion was ill.

what, if anything, is anybody going to do about this imbroglio along the "roof of the world." Barring Nehru's declaration that India would defend her frontiers, there has been no obstruction placed in the way of Peiping.

The U. N. has had a look at the situation, but hasn't made any move to intervene. As a matter of fact, if the U. N. did decide to intervene, it first would have to puzzle out what it could do about it. It isn't a position which lends itself to easy treatment.

Moreover, it has to be recognized that from the 17th century down to the Chinese revolution of 1912, Tibet was under Chinese domination. Therefore the peace organization hasn't seen fit to pick up the issue.

So the Red avalanche moves westward in Asia.
